ANNUAL MEETING OF HEALTH LEAGUE HELD HERE NEXT WEEK

More Than Thirty Young Women Will Receive Certificates Upon Completion of Home Nursing Train-

The annual meeting of the Mason County Health League which co-operates with the American Red Cross will be held at Beechwood Park on Friday, July 16th, at 2:30 o'clock and a very important meeting is planned. Among other important matters to be taken up at this meeting will be the presentation of certificates to more than thirty young women of this section who have completed the prescribed course in home nursing of the American Red Cross.

The annual report will be read and a general discussion of the work of the Health League will follow. The League is planning to do big things in Mason county this coming year as they have been relieved of much by the reorganization of the Mason County Health Department and the making of a county and city department of the health work. In the past this work has been largely financed by the Health League but in the future the League will be relieved of this burden and will be enabled to spend its money for other work in the county.

Much interest is being shown in Health League work just as present and the presentation of the Red Cross certificates to the young women graduates will be very impressive and will attract a large audience. The speakers for the annual meeting will be announced later.

SEASON TICKETS MAY STILL BE PURCHASED.

Under a special arrangement season tickets for the Chautauqua may still be purchased at the regular price of $2.50 plus 25 cents war tax. The purchase of season tickets up until Saturday will mean a saving to the purchaser as the price of the Monday and Sunday program will amount to the price of the entire season's program. Tickets may be purchased in down town stores or at the chautauqua grounds.

LOCAL BUSINESS MAY CHANGE HANDS SOON.

It is reported on good authority that one of the city's large business houses will likely change hands within a week. It is known that options have been taken by out-of-town concern.

WOMEN OF STATE URGED TO TAKE NEW COURSE

Course on Citizenship Will Be Offered the Women of Kentucky at State University.

Mrs. Josephine Grauman Marks, State Press Chairman of the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs, is today sending letters from her office at Georgetown through the press, urging the women of the state to attend the Course in Citizenship offered in the University of Kentucky Summer School during the week beginning July 19, 1920. Mrs. Marks is anxious to have the program while the University has worked out brought to the attention of every club woman in the state. The new responsibility of women in the state of Kentucky will be emphasized in the course and this new responsibility will be the basis of many club discussions in the women's clubs this fall. In the opinion of Mrs. Marks it is desirable that as many women as possible avail themselves of this course in order that they may be better prepared to act as leaders in this work in their own communities.

The program, which was prepared by the Federation of Women's Clubs at Madisonville in May.

CITY MAY HAVE REPRESENTA- TION ON BOARD OF HEALTH.

It is understood that inasmuch as the city is now helping to finance the health work in the county and has disbanded the city board of health that arrangements will be made for the city to have official representation on the County Health Board which now handles all health matters in both city and county.

MOVES TO DAYTON.

Miss Geneva Pierce, who for several years was a successful teacher in the Maysville public schools, has moved to Dayton, Ohio, to make that city her future home. Miss Pierce has hundreds of friends here who will be interested in her future. She was very popular among the parents of the children whom she taught.

SECOND CHAUTAUQUA DANCE TO BE GIVEN TONIGHT.

The second dance of chautauqua week will be given at Beechwood pavilion this evening, starting at the conclusion of the chautauqua program. These chautauqua dances are always great events much enjoyed and it is expected that there will be many in attendance this evening.

ACCIDENT PREVENTS DR. CADMAN'S VISIT HERE TOMORROW

New York Pastor, Also Famous Author, Will Speak in His Stend Friday Evening at Chautauqua.

The following telegram was received last night in Maysville by Chautauqua Superintendent Higdon:

"Dr. Cadman fell and broke his arm today. Doctor forbids his leaving before putting in plaster cast. Too painful and swollen to put in cast for a couple of days. Hope to be with you Thursday or Friday. Will wire you later. Very sorry. Mrs. Cadman."

Following the receipt of this wire another from the Col-Alber Chautauqua Bureau arrived saying that Dr. Cadman's condition was such that it would be impossible for him to fit his engagement Friday, and that Dr. Joseph Fort Newton, pastor of the Church of the Divine Fraternity, of New York City, had been secured to take his place.

Although it is extremely unfortunate that Dr. Cadman should meet with this distressing accident the local chautauqua will have the unexpected opportunity to hear a man of international reputation both for his oratory and his thorough grasp of current events, qualities which have won him tremendous success in his field of work.

Dr. Newton returned a few months ago from England where for nearly four years he served as pastor of the City Temple (Congregational), London. There he succeeded Dr. Reginald J. Campbell, famous all over the world. The City Temple of London was made famous by the late Dr. Joseph Parker, and is considered by many people throughout the world as the most famous protestant church in the world.

Dr. Newton has had a notable career for a man of 44 years of age, occupying important pulpits in the United States before going to England. For a number of years he held a lectureship in English at the State University of Iowa. He has been an editor, and is the author of a number of books, including "David Swing, Poet-Preacher," "Lincoln and Herndon," "The Builders," and has published twelve volumes of sermons.

In 1917 he visited the Western front as a guest of the British government, and following this made two special lecture tours to America, in 1917 and 1918, speaking to thousands of soldiers in this country as well as many thousands of soldiers in England, France and elsewhere. His ministry at the City Temple began under the most hazardous conditions of the war, at a time when a preacher announcing his text was not sure of living to pronounce the benediction. His Sunday audiences averaged 2,800 persons. He left three times as large a membership as he found on beginning his London pastorate, despite losses of many men during the war. He will speak here Friday night on "The New Patriotism," a lecture that is exceedingly timely.

Dr. Newton is one of the world's greatest orators, and it is indeed fortunate that so prominent a speaker has been secured to appear in Dr. Cadman's place.

BROOKSVILLE RAILROAD CASE SETTLED BY COURT

Circuit Judge Newell Settles Brooksville Railroad Case Satisfactorily

To All.

Circuit Judge C. D. Newell has settled the long pending Brooksville railroad case satisfactorily to all concerned. This road known as the Brooksville & Wellsburg railroad, was built about twenty years ago, and bonds to the amount of $22,000 were sold to pay for construction, etc., and Younger Alexander, president of the railroad at that time, was instrumental in getting this amount, holding the bonds as security.

A number of years ago, Mr. Alexander disposed of his banking and other business, excepting his railroad interests, at Brooksville, and located at Lexington, but retained control of the B. & W. This arrangement was continued for several years, until about two years ago when residents of Brooksville formed a company and subscribed about $45,000 to buy the road and put it in good running order.

After due process of law, the road was sold a little less than two years ago, the new company being the purchaser at $30,000. Mr. Alexander brought suit for the entire amount, claiming that his bonds, together with interest amounted to between $40,000 and $50,000. While the case was in court, a receiver was appointed for the railroad, who contracted to rent an engine from the new company at $10 per day—this amounting to about $6,000 at the time of the settlement of the case. Besides the above, there were a number of other claims against the road, and the suit was brought as to proper distribution of the $20,000—the amount for which the railroad was sold.

Judge Newell distributed the fund as follows: Mr. Alexander is to receive $12,266.49, the remainder of the $20,000 to go toward operating expense of the railroad, including a fee of $750 for attorney and $150 for Master Commissioner J. W. Byrne.

JUNIOR CHAUTAUQUA PLAN PICNIC FRIDAY.

The many children who are taking the junior Chautauqua work this week have greatly enjoyed the morning exercises under the direction of the Junior Leader. Friday will more than likely be their picnic day and the juniors will have a big time in the woods at Beechwood. A junior pageant will be given later in the week.

BACK FROM BAPTIST STATE ASSEMBLY.

Rev. J. A. Davis and wife have returned from Georgetown, Ky., where they have been attending the annual state Baptist Assembly. Pastor Davis will be in charge of the mid-week prayer service at the local church this evening which will adjourn in time for the evening chautauqua program.

WELCOME BACK HOME.

Mr. George Pollitt and family arrived in Maysville Wednesday evening having made the trip from their former home at Denver, Colorado, by automobile. Mr. Pollitt and his family will make Maysville their home in the future and their many friends give them a most cordial welcome back to the best little town in the world.

Before the primary election in August, Dr. Yazell expects to visit every county in the entire Ninth district. Already he has covered several of the counties nearest home and in every county he has found strong supporters who had never met him but who had picked him as the strongest man and the one to defeat Congressman Fields in the November election.

Dr. Yazell's popularity throughout the district is shown by the fact that even Democratic newspapers are endorcing him and when he wins the nomination it is almost certain that other Democratic journals in the district will throw their support behind his candidacy.

Mr. Albert Gayle and son, June, have returned home after a visit to

Mrs. A. Wheeler of Forest avenue.

The Presbyterian prayermeeting will open at 7 o'clock tonight, closing

ARRANGE SALE OF THE KENTUCKY WOOL POOL

Representative of State Wool Pool to Visit New York, Boston and Philadelphia Markets in Interest of Wool.

Definite steps were taken toward the disposal of the Kentucky wool pool at prices advantageous to the farmers at a meeting of the State Central Wool Committee Wednesday afternoon at the University of Kentucky. John R. Humphrey, head of the Bureau of Markets of the university, was commissioned to go to Philadelphia, New York and Boston and study the wool market and decide which of the three markets is the best in which to dispose of the Kentucky clip.

Mr. Humphrey will leave Saturday for the East. He will make the decision on the market while in the east and make tentative arrangements with warehouses in the city selected to receive the wool pool of the state. The clip will be held there for a better market, subject to instructions from the State Central Committee.

Movement of the wool from the various counties will start immediately after Mr. Humphrey's return. The wool of the various counties will be shipped to the market direct without being assembled at some central point in Kentucky.

JURY DISAGREED.

In the case of the state against Ernest McHenry of Manchester, O., charged with shooting at Pete Wells on the street there March 30, the jury disagreed after four hours' wrestle with the affair. Judge Stephenson will set a date for a retrial. All the witness were from Manchester.

It will be remembered that McHenry complained to Maysville officials that his wife had been stolen by a former husband from whom she was thought to have been divorced.

MRS. ANDREWS DIED IN BOURBON COUNTY.

Mrs. Mary Lula Andrews, 60 years old, died at her home near Shawan, Bourbon county, Tuesday of paralysis. She is survived by one brother, Grant Berry, Shawan. The body arrived here this morning. The funeral and burial service will be held at Shannon, this afternoon.

CHAUTAUQUA CROWDS GROWING WITH EVERY ENTERTAINMENT

Miss Mildred Clemens and her band of Native Hawaiians Will Entertain
Chautauqua Here Today—Big Program Friday.

Attendance at the Maysville chautauqua is growing with every entertainment and Wednesday evening the big tent was well filled to hear the Lincoln, Neb., Juvenile Trio and to see and hear Davis, the Master Magician. Maysville has seen many magicians but never any who has given more universal satisfaction than did Davis and this in spite of the fact that he was seen by many on the High School Lyceum program last winter. His tricks are mystifying and although he does many old stunts such as all magicians do, he puts just a certain new twist to them that make them go over as if they were all perfectly new.

Mr. Humphrey will leave Saturday for the East. He will make the decision on the market while in the east and make tentative arrangements with warehouses in the city selected to receive the wool pool of the state. The clip will be held there for a better market, subject to instructions from the State Central Committee.

The program for today should prove very delightful as Miss Mildred Leo Clemens, cousin of Mark Twain, will deliver an illustrated lecture on "The Pacific Paradise—Hawaii," and the lecture will be given a musical setting by music furnished by native Hawaiian musicians selected by Miss Clemens in her trip to the islands in April of this year.

Friday will be one of the biggest days of the week for besides the appearance of Lieutenant's Little Symphony and Sara Requa Viek, noted contralto. Dr. Joseph Fort Newton, of New York, one of the greatest pulpit or

In a position to buy wools to be used in taking care of orders placed, things are sure to slow up. The best opinion in the trade predicts a moderate reaction from the present slump in prices, but when it will come no one can say.

The cooperative pooling and consignment of wools is larger this year than ever before. Growers are realizing the benefits derived from such a plan as their wool now sells on merit and the good slips bring a premium for extra care and attention. This is the only sound system and its continuation rests the placing of the American wool clip on a superior product basis.

The big question now is, will the wool growers support their cooperative wool marketing agencies at this critical time or get scared and let their wool go to the first buyer making an offer, however low it may be?

The sheep men face a critical time right now. Sheep men are panicky; when prices are high there is a rush to get in at high prices, but let wool, lamb or mutton take a drop and the result is just as great in the other direction. At present the wool market is discouraging with buyers talking lower priced wool. Certainly there is no over supply of fine wools. The demand for the coarsest grades is slow as the mills are not pushing for orders for goods made from the lower grades of wool. The season's wool market has not yet opened and when trading finally gets started in a substantial way it may be that prices will not be so discouraging after all.

The main facts bearing on the present wool market are:

(1) Credit stringency.

(2) Difficulties in transportation both of raw wools to the mills and finished products to the retailers.

(3) Late shearing, due to cold weather.

The first two factors not only affect the wool trade but the manufacturing interests as well. Unless the mills are

FAR AND WARMER

UNCLE TED'S BED-TIME STORIES
FROM FRAM BOY TO PRESIDENT—

Warren G. Harding Was a "Regular" Boy.

"You know you promised to tell us all about Senator Harding last week," teased Jack as he tugged at his Uncle's coat.

"That's true, Jack. All right, I'll tell you all I can but there are so many things to tell about Mr. Harding that I can't possibly tell them all tonight. Now sit real quiet and don't ask too many questions."

"Warren G. Harding was born on his grandfather's farm not far from the little village of Blooming Grove, Morrow county, Ohio, on the second day of November, 1865. There were eight children in the family and Senator Harding was the oldest. His father, George T. Harding, was the village doctor in those days and is still practicing medicine in the city of Marion, Ohio, the present home of the Senator. The original Harding family come from Scotland, and settled first in Connecticut and later moved to Wyoming Valley, Pennsylvania, where many of them fought in the Revolutionary War. Warren's mother, for he was Warren, Jack, just as you are Jack today, was Phoebe Dickerson, descended from the Van Kirks, an old Holland Dutch family. So you see our next President has the strong blood of the Holland Dutch on one side and the fearless, alert, and liberty-loving Scotch blood on the other.

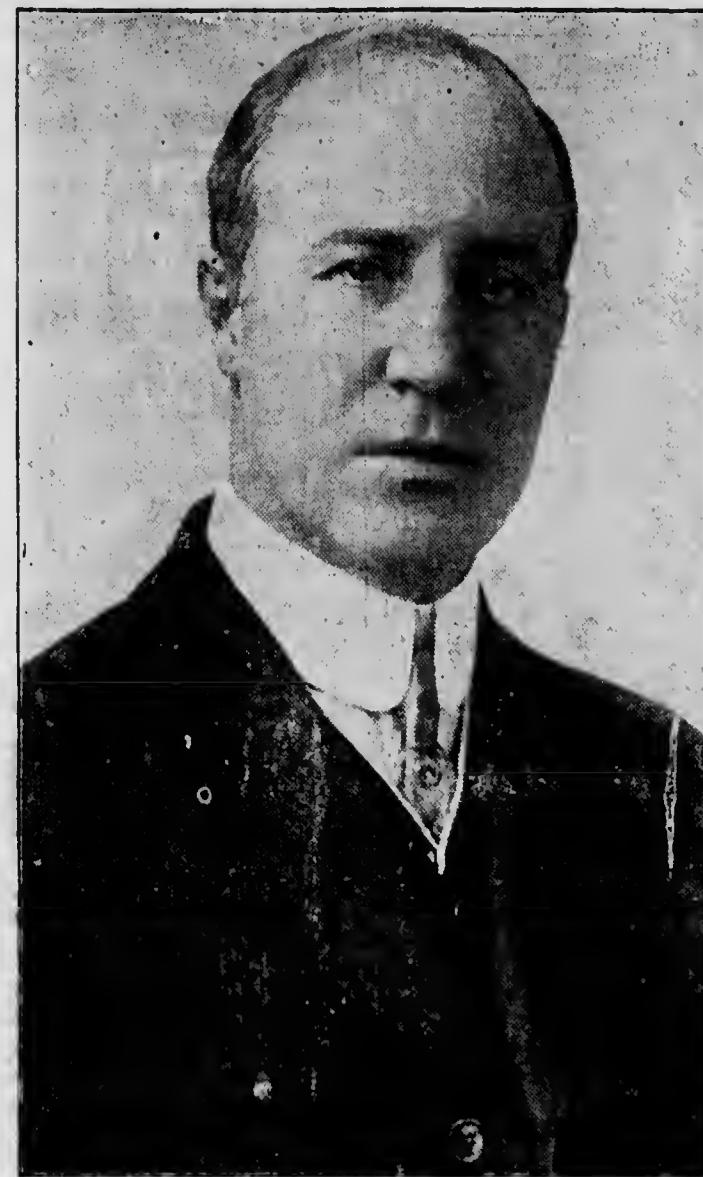

"As Warren grew up on his grandfather's farm he had to learn to cut down trees, chop wood, split rails, plant and hoe corn and all those things that had to be done when to raise crops meant raising them between the roots and stumps of trees. Everything was done by hand for there was no expensive farm machinery. Your father knows, Jack, what hard work it was in those days."

" Didn't he ever play?" asked Ruth. "You bet he did, Ruth. He was a healthy, big boy and like all healthy boys he enjoyed the sports of the country and village. He loved the old swimming hole and no boy could dove deeper or swim farther than Warren. He had a sunny disposition and was the real leader of the gang of his schoolmates. When he was sixteen he looked like a man and had the strength of a man and there was no older boy who dared bully him. And he always protected the younger boys. Until he was fourteen years old he went to the village school, and then he entered the Ohio Central College of Liberia. He graduated high in scholarship. It was while there that he showed a talent for newspaper work, for he was made editor of the college paper. But the boys in those days couldn't afford to go right through college. He had to stop for a time now and then to earn enough money to go ahead and finish. During these times he worked at many things. He painted his neighbors' barns, cut corn, and drove a team to grade the roadbed of a railroad. He taught school when he was seventeen and played a horn in the village brass band.

"But after he had a try at many things he still longed to be a newspaper man, and at odd times he worked in the little printing office. He learned to set type by hand and later run a linotype machine, which is used today in setting one line of newspaper type at once. In fact he learned from the ground up everything there was to know about a newspaper and to this day he carried in his pocket a 'luck pence' which is nothing more or less than the old printer's rule he used years ago when he was setting type.

"All of Senator Harding's newspaper ambitions were realized, for he finally became the owner and publisher of the Marion, Ohio, 'Star.' The 'Star' is his pet. When Warren was nineteen his father moved to Marion, where the 'Star' was a struggling daily paper in a town of about four thousand people. Warren could think of nothing else but that he wanted to own that paper. His father finally helped him take it over and then followed months of struggle and hard work to keep it going. At times he had to do everything from setting the type to writing the news and printing the paper on a press that had to be turned by hand. But that story is too long to tell tonight. The result of his hard work has been that the 'Star' today is a big money-making plant and could

GOV. MORROW WRITES

EDWIN P. MORROW

The crisis in our schools is nothing short of a national menace. Universal education is fundamental in a democracy. In the days of kings, if the sovereign had wisdom, the government was safe; but with us, the people are sovereign, what they think determines every issue of whatever nature. Unless they be well-trained, and well-instructed, and well-informed; unless they know how to value and to appreciate American institutions and American ideals, democracy will have difficulty in enduring. The defenses of our Commonwealth, the defenses of our nation are not material, but mental and spiritual. Our first lines of defense are our public schools. Our fortifications and our soldiery can repel an invasion of armies from our shores; our greater menace, an invasion of ideas, can be repelled alone in the school room. The form of reconstruction, of which our people are in most serious need, is a reconstruction of their thoughts and of their ideals.

Kentucky is experiencing a wonderful educational revalv. We have come to understand that our schools must be preserved and improved at whatever cost. The opportunities of the child living in the country must be made equal to the opportunities of the child living in the city; all the children of all the people in all the state must be given an equal chance. The teachers, whose unselfish devotion to duty has caused them to remain loyal to their task even at personal sacrifice, must be given adequate compensation. Better paid teachers will mean better prepared teachers; better prepared teachers will mean better taught children; better taught children will mean better citizenship. Our last General Assembly gave us a constructive and comprehensive program of school legislation. But laws do not enforce themselves; they are but lifeless things until public sentiment has breathed into their nostrils the breath of life. In the name of Kentucky's childhood, Kentucky's surest hope; in the name of patriotism, whose shrine is the public school, I urge the people of our Commonwealth to a generous support of, and a genuine interest in, our public schools. Education is an investment; Kentucky's greatest tax is ignorance.

not be bought for any price. There are more than thirty thousand people in Marion today and the 'Star' has a larger circulation than any other newspaper in a city of that size in the Middle West.

"I will tell you something that happened in the office of that paper one New Year's morning that shows the character of our next President. A friend entered the office and found the Senator making up the form of the paper. 'A great Senator you are,' said the visitor. 'I'd be a great Senator if I didn't know anything else,' he replied. 'You see, this is a holiday, and I can't tell you more tonight. Next week I will start where I have left off and tell you more about the life and work of OUR NEXT PRESIDENT, WARREN G. HARDING.'

The first camp-meeting in the United States was conducted by James McGarry and the two brothers McGee around a little log church on Gasper river in Logan county, Kentucky, near the beginning of the nineteenth century.

AMERICAN IDEALS.

By Prof. David D. Vaughan.

(Reprinted from Fibre and Fabric March 13, 1920.)

Certain ideals that are becoming the common property of men in the remote corners of the earth have represented the aspirations of our truest Americans from the very beginning. American ideals are older than our nation, for out of them our nation was born. And as the years have passed, these ideals have not only persisted, but we have given to them a richer and a fuller interpretation. New situations, with a broader and a more tolerant spirit widen the horizon and give new meanings to old faith.

The first ideal is Truth. It was this inspiration that laid the moral foundations of our government. The difference between North and South America may be partly accounted for by a recognition of the difference between truth seekers and gold seekers. Our fathers anxious to know the truth religiously, as they understood it, and determined to practice it, were so the-mendously in earnest, that, when forbidden this liberty by a stupid English king, they left home and friends and property and took that boat the Mayflower, which Carlyle says was freighted with the greatest cargo of democracy that ever sailed the briny seas. They landed at Plymouth Rock, made a clearing in the woods and used the logs cut to build a church, for they were religious, to build a town hall, for they were not anarchists, but to build a school house, for they knew as Americans have known ever since, that education is the very foundation of truth. In spite of their own immediate and pressing material needs this pioneer group made the gift that gave birth to Harvard University, the University outstanding in America today because of its insistence on academic freedom.

We have been learning some things about truth that our fathers did not know. We have discovered that truth does not come in chunks, that it is not let down from Heaven in a bulky package, infallible, unchangeable, complete, with a halo over it to guarantee its divine origin. Truth is revealed to us gradually. Men who look for finality and infallibility in human affairs have no place in this generation of thinkers. All things that have to do with life come by development, by an evolutionary process. This means growth, and growth means change, — a difference between yesterday and today, between today and tomorrow. Men have sometimes thoughtlessly boasted that they were "stupendous," — hardly a state of mind to boast about. You recognize full well that you do not honor your grandfather by stopping where he finished, but by starting where he finished. Your grandfather's cap stones in building are not your cap stones, but your foundation stones. The dead hands of the past must never be allowed to throttle the throat of progress. In business, in religion, in politics or any other phase of human life. One may accept a principle,

Not because it's old.
And not because it's new.
And not because it's orthodox.
But just because it's true.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS.

John D. Rockefeller, born of humble parentage in the little town of Richford, N. Y., 81 years ago today, is now believed to be the richest person in the world so far as worldly wealth goes. He owes the bulk of his vast fortune to his control of Standard Oil, the most resourceful corporation in the world's history, of which he was chief organizer and for many years the directing genius of its intricate mechanism. Long ago Mr. Rockefeller declared his ambition in life had ceased to be the accumulation of the greatest human fortune. Still, in a constantly increasing ratio, the dollars in the Rockefeller strong box have piled up. Even if Mr. Rockefeller's world-wide reputation for benevolence to educational and other institutions, his keen insight into the underlying reason for human endeavor, his mastery of men, do not make for him a place in the gallery of great characters of the world, he will go down into the records as the first titanic hero since creation.

"Now kiddies, it's getting late and I can't tell you more tonight. Next week I will start where I have left off and tell you more about the life and work of OUR NEXT PRESIDENT, WARREN G. HARDING."

The Louisville board of aldermen has decided upon $500 as the license fee for boxing bouts in that city.

Winners in the recent sectional tryouts for the American Olympic team are now training earnestly for the arduous competition which confronts them in the Harvard Stadium on July 17 and one week after that date the successful Yankee athletes will sail from New York for Antwerp.

—A COOLING TIP

Air-O-Weaves

A fellow in a cool, smart Air-O-Weave is a soothing sight to make any officer stop on his beat and cool off. An Air-O-Weave beats the torrid day of its sticky, "baked" feeling. You not only feel breeze-cooled and comfortable but you make others feel so who see you.

An Air-O-Weave invites breezes. It wards off the sun's piercing rays—it fits without clinging—it holds its smart shape and does not wrinkle.

Air-O-Weaves are not "gumby-sack" summer clothes. Need little pressing and give lots of wear.

UNIVERSAL PRESENTS MARY MACLAREN IN

The Road to Divorce

Woman are you afraid that your husband is slipping away from you? Do you know the signs that mean that you have lost your ability to hold him? A picture that every wife should see and every woman that intends to be a wife, should see without fail. Take the man that is nearest and dearest to you to see this picture. See the rugged beauty of the rocky coast. "Why can't I be beautiful" many a wife has said to herself, struggling to hold back the tears as she saw life's greatest dream fading away from her. This is truly a wonderful picture. See the big storm at sea. Trills galore.

JOHNSON URGES SUPPORT OF REPUBLICAN PARTY

Louisville, Ky., July 8.—Despondent because of protracted illness, Daniel M. Wood, 68 years old, retired merchant ended his life in his room at the Coker Apartments early yesterday. The suicide was not discovered until Mr. Wood failed to put in an appearance at breakfast and his room was entered. When found Mr. Wood was in a sitting posture. He had shot himself through the right temple.

Mr. Wood was a hachelor in a popular member of the Peabody Club here. For many years he was connected with the firm of Alvin Wood & Co., and later with the Wood Produce Company.

WRIT OF MANDAMUS SOUGHT.

Frankfort, Ky., July 8.—J. B. Jones, of Paducah, candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress in the Fourth District, has filed mandamus proceedings against Secretary of State Fred A. Vaughan to compel him to certify his name to the County Clerks of the counties in the district. The notification and declaration papers of which were defective, it is said, and for that reason Secretary of State Vaughan declined to notify the County Clerks that his name should go on the ballots.

EXPLOSION KILLS 210.

Budapest, July 8.—Two hundred and ten persons were killed in a mine disaster in the Aranya district, according to word received here today.

Mrs. Eugene R. Berens, of Clarendon, has returned home after a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. H. Bland, of East Second street.

Mr. Irwin Lee, of Peoria, Ill., a native of this city, is here for a day calling on friends and relatives.

DRPHANS TO BE GIVEN PICNIC IN FLEMING COUNTY.

The Odd Fellows and Rebekahs, of Fleming county, will entertain the children of the Kentucky Odd Fellows' home at the Ewing fair grounds Saturday at an all day picnic. This picnic is expected to be a great affair and everyone is invited to attend. Several people from Maysville and Mason county will be in attendance.

SCHOOL BUILDINGS ARE BEING PIT IN GOOD SHAPE.

Mr. Melton, of the Manual Training department of the High School, with his assistants, are now making good headway toward putting the various city school buildings in good condition for the next year. Practically every building in the city is being repainted inside and certain other much needed repairs are being made.

FOURTEEN-YEAR-OLD BOY TIRED OF LIFE, HANGS SELF.

Louisville, Ky., July 8.—Albert Lotz, fourteen years old, who said he was tired of life, hanged himself last night in a shed at the rear of his home at 320 West Market street. The boy left the house to go to the shed to take a bath, he said. When he did not return after two hours his grandmother investigated and found the body hanging to a rope from a rafter. He is survived by his mother, a brother and a sister.

Old Sores, Piles, Burns and Scalds Heal Very Quickly

J. Jas. Wood & Son sell an ointment called San Cura that surely does do anything it is advertised to do or money back.

Thos. F. McCauley, Cooperstown, Pa., cut his finger; blood poison set in; arm swelled terribly; friends despaired; said arm must come off. San Cura Ointment drew out water and dark pus; agony ceased; arm and hand soon as good as ever.

It quickly draws out poison from sores, fever sores, ulcers, boils, carbuncles, cuts, burns, scalds, and blisters.

For itching, bleeding or protruding piles, it has received the highest endorsement, while innumerable cases are recorded where eczema, tetter and salt rham were relieved in the shortest possible time. San Cura Ointment is 35c, 65c, $1.25 and $2.50 a jar.

Everybody should use San Cura Soap, its antiseptic, prevents germ life, keeps the skin clear, soft and velvety, 25 cents. Thompson Medical Co., Titusville, Pa.
